GOOSEBERRY PIES.

From Same Bush at Wedding and Golden Anniversary.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 1.—Fifty years ago, when George W. Wetzel, of Baraboo, sat down with his bride to their wedding day dinner gooseberry pie was on the homely bill of fare. A little thing to be remembered for so long? Maybe; but they did not forget. And when, after the lapse of a half century of life together on the home farm, they kept their golden wedding anniversary this week, with their children and their children's children about them, there again was gooseberry pie.

And what's more, the bush that furnished the berries for the wedding away back yonder in the summer of '57, was the same bush that yielded the fruit for the golden jubilee.

Through the crowding of events of 50 years the old bush has kept its post steadfastly, unwithered by age, standing today as strong and rugged as in the days of its first youth.

The vigor of robust life seems to belong to the home place. Wetzel is 76, his wife is 70, and of their six children all are living.

An alley between Harrison and Clay streets was the scene of the worst cave-in.

Queer Smokes.

"Tobacco," said a tobaccoist, "is but one of many herbs that are smoked. In the Orient, for instance, chang or cannabis, a drug that gives one the desire to caress people's feet, goes into loads of pipes. Some savages smoke the leaves of the wild potato and the wild tomato. These bitter leaves are narcotic. They throw you into a pleasant stupor. Pursued in, though, they bring on insanity. "Some of the Swiss guides smoke 'mountain tobacco,' a weed that grows only at great heights. This stuff produces an intoxication akin to alcohol's. Our Indians, when hard up, smoke holly and sumach leaves, and the silvery leaves of 'Indian tobacco,' which every boy has chewed."

"How's the weather out your way?" "We are sleeping under—" "Don't spring that old blanket yarn on me!" "Under difficulties, my boy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Marconi—the wireless wizard—did not stumble accidentally upon the principles of his marvelous invention.

It was only by deep and prolonged study of the cause of certain known phenomena in nature that he was able to produce the startling effect. Many people, in speaking of Hair Restorers, have a way of bunching them altogether without discrimination.

Herpicide is as different from other so-called "hair restorers" and "remedies" as day is from night.

JIMMY BRITT

DEFEATS NELSON IN TWENTY-ROUND BOUT.

Battling Nelson Had No Chance From Time First Blow Was Struck

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Jimmy Britt defeated Battling Nelson in a terrific twenty-round fight here last night. Nelson had little chance to win, the first blow of the contest almost flooring him. He tried to force the fighting but was always met by a hard straight left or right to the jaw and at the end was staggering around the ring, all but out. There were no clean knock downs in the contest.

A few minutes before 9 o'clock the crowd outside the building where the Nelson-Britt fight was held, had grown in size and tempo to a mob, when the thousands started to charge the entrance with the evident intention of overwhelming the foot police and breaking into the hall, half a dozen mounted blue coats charged from several directions simultaneously and a score of persons were knocked down and trampled upon, some of them falling under the horses' feet. It is not known that any one was badly hurt. Both Britt and Nelson weighed in at 6 o'clock, each making 133 easily. After weighing in both ate a hearty meal.

At 9 o'clock every seat in the rink had been taken and close onto a thousand people were standing up. The police stopped admission to the galleries before the first preliminary and this caused hard feeling among the crowd outside.

The size of the crowd in attendance exceeds even the best hopes of the club management. The great outpouring of ring followers, it is suggested, is partly accounted for by the fact that this is the first top notch fight pulled off in San Francisco proper since the earthquake and judging by the attitude of Mayor Taylor's new board of supervisors, probably will be the last professional fight that will be witnessed for some time to come.

August was welcomed in with a fall of one foot by the river. This morning the stage registered 16.9. Weather clear and business moving briskly. The Hosmer is still doing harbor work for the Ayer & Lord Tie company.

Mussel fishers were in hard luck during July, and they barely earned the salt in their bread. This was due to the high stage of the Mississippi river, which has held the Ohio river so there is little current, and at Joppa, where the mussel industry thrives, the river has been as still as a pond. The mussel fishers use flat bottomed boats to fish from and at one end they have a board down in the water to catch the current and carry the boat along. This has been dubbed a "mule," but in the still water the "mule" balks. With this condition little progress is made as it is necessary for the hooks, that catch the mussels to drag the bottom of the river. Since the river is falling at most points now, the current is beginning again, and the fishers are in their glory. A flat boat started from

Unrecorded Accidents.

Here is a list of accidents, due to the Fourth of July, that the police records this morning don't show. The figures are necessarily approximate, but their comparative accuracy can be vouched for. Two thousand four hundred and seventy-one men cut themselves while shaving when a particularly loud explosion occurred. Almost as many collar studs dropped from shaking hands and rolled under the bureau. Four thousand and three waiters or waitresses, alarmed in a similar manner, dropped trays containing various kinds of crockery and cookery, and at least 22,000 cigars were dropped into the gutters and hopelessly ruined. Also, 118 meerschaum pipes were broken and many hundred briar pipes will require new amber stems. Several hundred women will arrive to have gauzy summer dresses cleaned because they dropped their trains just as they were crossing muddy streets as diabolical small boys chose the psychological moment to let off a string of firecrackers behind them. There are many other accidents in this class, but every family can add one or more to this incomplete list.—New York Tribune.

ENGINE NEEDED TO LAND THIS FISH.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 1.—A special to the Advertiser from Demopolis says: The largest fish ever captured in the state, one that tipped the beam at 350 pounds, has been caught by Jack Phillips, a keeper of the Bigbee bridge, about four miles from the city.

Mr. Phillips had been repeatedly worried by some object obstructing his set hooks and nets, and finally he resolved to put a stop to this meddler in his sport. He secured a large iron hook and trace chain and baited the hook with a large fish and fastened the chain to a tree near the bank.

Wednesday morning Mr. Phillips visited his hook and endeavored to pull the catch and hook out of the water but not an inch would it give. He pulled repeatedly, without effect. Finally he summoned several negroes to his assistance, but the result was the same. He was convinced that some object out of the ordinary had been hooked. He secured further assistance, whose combined help managed to bring to the surface a large fresh-water shark. But the help he had was not sufficient to draw the shark on the bank, despite the fact that the shark did not make any attempt to resist, doubtless being too weak.

Mr. Phillips enlisted the aid of the conductor and engineer of a freight train. Other chains were secured and fastened to the engine and also to the chain in the water. The signal was then given for the engine to move and the shark was slowly drawn out of the water.

News was sent to this city and a number of citizens visited the scene, some carrying kodaks, others measuring rods, and several a weighing machine.

The shark weighed exactly 350 pounds, and measured 8 feet 8 inches. This monster of the finny tribe did not survive long out of the water and it was made necessary to again throw it back into the water.

Coroner Sits on Treasure Trove

De Castro Glubb, coroner, held an inquest at Liskeard Guildhall yesterday on thirty-one gold coins, found buried in Trembraze farmyard near the town. The coroner stated that no similar inquiry had been held in Cornwall for at least 100 years.

If the jury found that the coins were treasure trove, he said, they would be claimed by the Duchy of Cornwall, who, no doubt, would deal generously with the finder, as was the practice of the crown. James Croker Govett, son of the owner of the farm, described how he found the coins while cleaning the farmyard.

His mother's family, he said, had owned the farm for many years, and he produced a document dated July 13, 1745, relating to the finding of 55 1/2 guineas in the floor of the barn by John Croker and Dorothy, his wife. Mr. Volk, jeweler of Liskeard, said many of the coins were rare. Eight were Portuguese milreis dated 1682 to 1725. The remainder were English, the most ancient being three gold units, or 20 shilling pieces, of James I. and Charles I., while the rest were guinea pieces dating from 1680 to 1725.

The jury, of which the mayor (Alderman Bone) was foreman, found that the coins were treasure trove, and the coroner handed them to the finder. Subsequently they were claimed by Alexander Webster, steward of the Duchy of Cornwall, and the matter will be laid before the next meeting of the duchy—London Standard.

PROSPERITY IS KEEPING UP PACE

Editors of Trade Magazines See No Cessation.

All Lines Receive Orders That Will Exceed Demands of Last Year's Trade.

STATEMENTS FROM ALL SIDES.

New York, Aug. 1.—Prosperity is here to stay. That is the verdict of the editors of a large number of trade journals, each of whom is an expert in his line.

Because interest rates are high and because here and there has been a slight let-up in the traffic pace of an industry some pessimists have been predicting a serious depression. The trade authorities point out that the scarcity of money is an evidence of the activity of business, which increases the demand for money. Some industries have been pushed beyond a natural and reasonable gait, and a slight recession has merely brought them back to a healthful pace. The trade editors have put their opinions in the form of signed statements for publication, and following is the gist of these statements:

H. C. Watson.

(Editor of Dun's Review.) All standards of measurement agree that there is no retrograde movement. Eliminating the speculative element, as shown by sales of securities, bank exchanges at the principal cities have surpassed last year's, railway earnings have been larger, bank failures have been fewer and prices of commodities advanced more than can be attributed to speculation. These four yardsticks are unanimous in showing that no setback has yet occurred.

The very lack of money is indisputable evidence that business is active. There is little excuse for pessimism, especially as frequent reiteration of calamitous predictions have thus far failed to unsettle confidence. The monetary problem will gradually solve itself, and there is no other serious feature. Natural resources of this country are insignificantly developed, as compared with those of the older nations, and the future holds far greater rewards in store for the United States than have been attained in any of the phenomenally prosperous years of the recent past.

Robert H. McCready. (Managing Editor Fabrics, Fancy Goods and Notions.)

The notion market is in such shape that every other question is subsidiary to getting the goods. That condition will become more acute as the season advances is practically a certainty. Cost of raw materials is no longer the paramount issue; the difficulty is to get the goods made up. There is no surplus stock anywhere in sight, the mills are far behind on orders, deliveries are being made in sufficient quantities for immediate needs only, and the prospect of any slump in the market is absolutely eliminated for a long time to come.

H. S. Voorhis.

(Editor American Silk Journal.) Nearly all the silk weaving mills have increased their manufacturing capacity by adding new looms and the great problem is not so much the sale of goods as obtaining weavers capable of turning out the right kind of fabrics. Selling agents and commission merchants in Green street, the New York silk market, almost invariably say they could sell ten yards of silk where they now sell one if they could but obtain the goods.

P. H. Jacobs. (Editor Implement Age, Philadelphia.)

In all lines, grain seeders, grain harvesters, grain and plow cultivators, harrows, potato machinery, implements, farm wagons, etc., the demand has exceeded the supply. Manufacturers report but one difficulty—their inability to fill orders—and this complaint comes from every section of the country.

T. Edgar Wilson. (Editor of the Jewelers' Circular Weekly.)

Silversmiths, goldsmiths, optical manufacturers, watch manufacturers and importers report the prospects for the fall to be very bright. Despite the fact that last fall the manufacturers could not supply the demands made upon them, they expect the business for the coming year to be the greatest in their history and to far exceed its predecessor.

W. E. Price. (Editor the Publisher and Retailer.)

In the general publishing field it is an accepted belief that never before have the conditions been so broadly satisfactory as during this year. The outlook is for continued improvement. For the first time in more than 20 years there is an increase in the number of book-sellers.

H. J. Schnell. (Editor Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter.)

Conditions during the current year in the drug, chemical and oil trade, covered by the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter, have in many instances proved of unusual interest and occasionally have led to remarkable results. Business, as a whole, has been exceptionally good, and at a conservative estimate from 15 to 25 per cent better than during the corresponding period of 1906.

Robert J. Patterson. (Associate Editor American Hatter.)

The mere statement that the trade generally is prosperous is indeed a trite one; the fact is, today there are no indications of any let-up in the demand, and merchandise being manufactured by the factories in all sections is immediately entering into consumption.

J. H. Pepper. (Editor the House Furnishing Review.)

On the whole the condition of the house furnishing goods trade is highly satisfactory, with little or nothing on the horizon to disturb the feeling of confidence which has for so long existed on the part of manufacturers and buyers alike.

L. E. Fairchild. (Editor of Apparel Gazette.)

Manufacturers and jobbers in men's furnishing goods have had a most successful fall and winter season, and with some lines the selling period is lengthened now by the transaction of incoming buyers.

F. F. Purdy. (Editor Carpet and Upholsters' Trade Review.)

The outlook for the fall trade so far as the special conditions of the carpet and upholsters' trade are considered are favorable. Collections are reported on all hands, as excellent, with little or no complaint whatever on that score.

E. C. Mayer. (Editor American Pottery Gazette.)

In the china and glass trades there are no signs to indicate anything but marked prosperity for the near future. The potteries of East Liverpool, Trenton and Wheeling, as well as the glass manufacturers of Pittsburgh and other points, all report well-filled order books, and add that buyers in most instances generously exceeded the amount of purchases of previous seasons.

J. C. Chase. (Editor of Motor.)

Although it has already assumed tremendous proportions, the motor car manufacturing industry has as yet by no means come into its own. So far there has been, as it were, but a scratching of the surface—a catering to what in an older field is known as the silver-plated harness demand.

Walter E. Cabone. (Editor Playthings.)

The growth of the toy trade in this country during the past few years has been simply phenomenal. It is hardly more than fifty years that the first toy factory was established in this country, and now there are more than 1,000 concerns engaged in making toys, games and articles for the amusement of children.

H. W. Smith. (Editor of Men's Wear.)

Manufacturing clothiers have had a long and very prosperous season for the fall and winter of 1907-8. The wholesale selling period opened from four to six weeks earlier than before. Retailers were in a buying mood when called upon by traveling salesmen, as they all had a very good run of business last winter and cleaned up their stocks to an extent that made them easy to approach with new clothing.

Daniel W. Mallett. (Editor Hardware Dealers' Magazine.)

The hardware trade of the United States in all branches is busily engaged in supplying the consuming public with a very large volume of goods. While the factories are not as heavily overburdened with business as they were a year ago, they are steadily employed and the prospects are that they will continue so for some time to come.

TO OWN ESTATES.

Case Involving Right of Catholic Church With Supreme Court.

Washington, August 1.—The case of the people of Porto Rico against the Roman Catholic church of Porto Rico, was docketed today in the supreme court of the United States. It involves the right of the Catholic church to control the estates formerly owned by the Dominican and Franciscan orders in that island. The lands of these estates were alienated by the action of the Spanish government in 1833, but the Catholic church claims that the act was not properly carried out, and that it now seeks to have them restored, claiming that the church is especially dependent since the United States came into authority and separated the church from the state.

The supreme court of Porto Rico decided in favor of the church and ordered that all the lands and former convents be restored to the church.

Will Kill MacLean.

Tangier, August 1.—Gerald A. Lowther, the British minister here, has received a letter from Calid Sir Harry MacLean, stating that Raisal, who holds him prisoner, threatens to put him to death unless Mohammed El Torres, the sultan's representative for foreign affairs, at Tangier, withdraws the troops from the Elkes territory.

NURSE ARRESTED; MYSTERY DEEPER

Colorado Springs Police Believe It Was Murder.

Connection Between Rumbaugh and Dead Girl Not Yet Entirely Established.

NURSE SENT LETTERS AHEAD.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 1.—Miss Greene, the nurse who attended Miss Laura Matthews, and who announced the girl's suicide before it occurred, was arrested last night. Late developments in the case tend to weaken the theory of suicide and raise the suspicion of murder.

That the suicide of Rumbaugh is in some way connected with the death of Miss Matthews is not doubted by the police. He was to have appeared as a witness at the coroner's inquest over the body of the girl.

He had claimed to be but a chance acquaintance of Miss Matthews, but it developed that he knew her in Chicago and also knew C. A. Coey, and Dr. H. A. Thomas. He was frequently a member of parties at which Miss Matthews and other girls and the two Chicagoans were members.

Seemed To Know Coey Well.

According to the police, Rumbaugh was the man who accompanied Miss Greene, the nurse, to the lively stable about 5 o'clock Monday morning to see if Miss Matthews's horse had returned, and it was he who sent a telegram to Coey saying "Laura committed suicide on account of you. Send $300 at once for expenses."

It was with Rumbaugh also that Miss Matthews left a letter in which was inclosed a letter for Coey. These letters are in possession of the police.

The authorities have not yet completed their examination of Rumbaugh's effects, but it is stated that letters found tend to entangle many people of prominence in Chicago in the suicide of Miss Matthews.

Nurse Forewarned of Suicide.

At the coroner's inquest over the body of Miss Laura Matthews several sensational facts were developed.

Miss Greene, the nurse, who had been the dead woman's companion while in Colorado Springs, admitted having written several letters to friends of Miss Matthews in Chicago and elsewhere stating that Laura had taken her life. It developed that these letters were written before she had been informed of the finding of Miss Matthews's body.

She explained this by saying that she had anticipated such an event. One of the letters written by Miss Greene is as follows:

Mr. Dear Tot—Poor little Laura has ended the heart trouble she has tried to fight. She shot herself to-night. Home soon and will tell you all. This has been a severe nervous strain, but must keep up and make arrangements. TILLIE.

Says Girl Chose Her Casket.

This letter was not addressed, but is supposed to have been intended for some person in Chicago. Miss Greene also testified that several days ago she and Miss Matthews had visited a local mortuary and Miss Matthews had selected a casket and remarked:

"This is the kind of a casket I wish to be buried in."

The witness declared positively that Miss Matthews was not in a delicate condition.

Nurse Greene was on the witness stand at the coroner's inquest when Under Sheriff George Dayton, calling in through an open window from the outside, announced that Rumbaugh had shot himself. She nearly fainted.

Suicide Is Verdict.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—(Later)—The coroner's jury this afternoon rendered a verdict that Miss Laura Matthews, whose dead body was found in a lane near Broadmoor Monday morning with a bullet hole in the head, committed suicide.

An inquest later was held over the remains of Amos R. Rumbaugh, who shot himself yesterday afternoon. The verdict also was suicide. Suspicion for a time pointed to Rumbaugh as having caused the death of Miss Matthews, because of his apparent infatuation for the young woman, and his failure to appear at the inquest.

Miss Tillie Green, of Scottville, Mich., who was Miss Matthews's nurse, and whose effects have been held by the authorities, is declared in no way to blame for the young woman's act.

A Misleading Title.

An amusing story is told of the Bishop of Sodor and Man's visit to Melton Nowbray some months ago, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. A brougham awaited him at the station, and he stepped into it expecting to be taken at once to his destination. To his surprise, however, the coachman sat motionless on the box, without the least intention, apparently, of leaving the station.

"At last the Bishop inquired why he was waiting."

"Well, sir," said the coachman, "I was told to wait for the Bishop of Sodor and Man. You've arrived, sir, and now I'm waiting for the man."

JUDGE JIM HARGIS

RETIRES FROM DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE.

Breathitt County Boss, After Being Acquitted of Murder Retires Under Fire.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 1.—James Hargis, of Breathitt county, member of the Democratic state central committee for the Tenth congressional district, addressed a letter to Chairman Lewis McQuinn, of that committee, resigning from the committee.

Judge Hargis attended the meeting of the committee here today, but gave no intimation of his purpose to resign. He left on an afternoon train for Lexington, where he spent the night and from that place he addressed his letter of resignation. He gave its contents only to Col. W. P. Walton, editor of the Kentucky State Journal, who wired it to his paper here, and it thus became public.

Lying on her deathbed with no earthly possession but her 4-months-old baby, Mrs. Oscar Tamasos, of Monessen, Pa., today advertised the child for sale for $50 in order that she may pay her medical and drug bills, a small debt for food, and leave this life without a creditor, says a Pittsburg telegram.

Three months ago the father disappeared, leaving his wife and child destitute. For several weeks the mother supported herself and baby by washing, but fell a victim of an incurable disease.

Creditors, realizing the helplessness of the woman, have agreed to cancel her indebtedness, but she insists on offering for sale her sole and dearest possession in order that her debts may be met and the child assured of a home before she is compelled to leave it.

No Mutual Situation.

The late Bishop James Newbury Fitzgerald in an address in St. Louis once declared that sympathy, far more than eloquence or learning, made for success in the ministry, says the Washington Star.

"Too many of us, through lack of sympathy," he said, "say the worst, the most inappropriate things. Thus, a young Baptist friend of mine, confiding with a housebreaker in jail, droned:

"Ah, my friend, let us remember that we are here today and gone tomorrow."

"You may be; I ain't," the housebreaker answered shortly.

NAVAL "EFFICIENCY."

After careful investigation of the recent disaster on the battleship Georgia, it was determined that the accident in the gun turret which killed a dozen officers and men was due to a "flareback"—bits of burning powder or tape in the breach of the gun, which when the breach block was swung back, were blown by the draft through the gun against the powder, causing the latter to explode prematurely.Unavoidable is the verdict of naval experts, and yet we know that such accidents are not unavoidable, neither are they due to carelessness.
Such accidents are due to the haste of execution in the effort of the gun crew to make a record at target practice. Battleships are floating magazines, and every minute the sailors are taking their lives in their hands at the best.Records at target practise are made by marksmanship, rapidity of firing and every other item that goes to make "efficiency" in action against an enemy. It is this word—efficiency that has cost so many lives at target practise in the American navy. In the last few years a half dozen accidents as disastrous as the one on the battleship Georgia have happened, and every one is due to this desire for "efficiency."No other navy equals ours in the accuracy of marksmanship and the rapidity with which guns are handled. At target practise the men arestimulated by offers of reward and their enthusiasm to excel their fellows. Officers and men are moved by the common impulse. Did they always take precautions to see that every particle of smouldering fire is removed, time would be lost in serving and firing the guns, and thus,
"efficiency" would be lessened; but is this sort of "efficiency" worth the risk?Such catastrophes will make it harder to secure recruits for the navy. There is no glory in being slaughtered by a "flare back" at target practise. Such a disaster at a gun in time of action would do more execution among our men than would the broadside of the enemy.
A little less "efficiency" and a little more "prudence" might be a good motto on some of our ships.Chattanooga, Tenn., is to come in for some $8,000 more taxes by reason of winning a contention to assess railroad yards as localized property. Instead of distributable property. Hitherto the state has assessed all railroad rights of way, but now the yards are assessed by the local assessors and taxed on the local rate.We have yet to learn the lesson that anything, which tends to shorten human life or carelessly endangers
it, is the moral equivalent of murder.Prosperity is observable everywhere in McCracken county, say the magistrates, who have been riding over every foot of public highway in the county, and they ought to know.While the contractors apparently are exerting every effort to complete the new school buildings on time, the school board would have been guarding the city's interests more closely if the trustees had not stricken off
the clause penalizing the contractor for every day over time in completing the buildings, which clause appeared in the original contract.Let us so order our lives, that we may get up every morning hungry, and go to bed every night satisfied.The bottom literally dropped out of the Erie canal day before yesterday, but to all practical intents the bottom dropped out of the canal
when the Baltimore & Ohio railroad

POLITICS.That the Republican party standing by its platform to take the schools out of politics, is attested by the fair offer in this city to support an independent ticket and by the offer in Louisville to support a bipartisan movement. Even the Louisville Times recognizes the imprugnability of the position and the practicability of the idea and says:"The Republican city and county convention, held at Liederkrantz hall yesterday afternoon, adopted by unanimous vote a resolution calling for the election of school trustees on nonpartisan grounds and inviting the co-operation of other political parties 'in the inauguration and maintenance of such a policy.' The resolution thus adopted was embodied in the report of the committee on resolutions and thus became an integral part of the Republican platform. Later the convention by unanimous vote adopted a resolution offered too late for incorporation in the platform and which was read to the convention by its chairman. That resolution provides that four school trustees shall be named by the Republican and four by the Democratic party, the remaining to be chosen by lot and all to be voted for at the coming election. The alleged purpose of the resolution is to take the school board out of politics without further delay. With that purpose the Times is heartily in accord, but it questions whether the best interests of the schools will be served by the continuance of the present combersome system of a top heavy board of men chosen because of their political availability rather than their fitness for the important work to be committed to them."What is needed is a board of not less than three nor more than seven members, composed of men fully qualified by character, education and training to deal with the many and complicated problems which necessarily arise in the conduct of the school system of a city of the first class. These men should be chosen from both parties, and should receive a salary commensurate with the value of their professional performance of the duties entrusted to them.A bi-partisan board would be an improvement over a board composed solely of the partisans of one political party, chosen not by the voters, butthat party, but named by a committee of fellow party men, and for that reason the Times believes that the election of a bi-partisan board would mean a step in the direction of a non-partisan commission of which the school system of Louisville is in sore need."

31, in the United States, according to accident bulletin No. 23, issued by the interstate commerce com-

and the number injured are some-three months, the record is yet ap-

number of casualties to passengers and to employees while on duty during the three months was 20,563, as compared with 20,944 reported in the preceding three months—a decrease of 381. The total number of passengers and employees killed in train accidents was 421, and the number of injured 4,920—53 less in the number killed and 20 less in the number injured, as compared with the record of the preceding three months.The total number of collisions and derailments in the quarter was 3,991
(2,978 collisions and 1,913 derail-

229 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, engines

Curious Fishes of France.

If the traveler approaches Marseilles by water he will be rewarded
by a novel pageant of fisherfolk, gamins who have rowed out and are on the lookout for coins, and a stretch of ocean liners representing nearly every port in the world floating peacefully in the foreground, while high above all like a silhouette against the sky, rises the statue of Notre Dame de la Garde, the sailors' patron and the chief landmark of the city.The entire population of Marseilles seems to be occupied in either buying or selling fish. The wonder of it is that, when anybody, apparently,
might catch all the fish that he wants
—for the city centers right around the harbor—the markets, which in the morning are piled high with every variety of sea food, are in a few hours depleted of stock, although there is no canning or preserving establishment to use up the supply.And these markets are scattered about in all parts of the city and are quite independent of the street sellers with their accompanying baskets.The most curious edible fish in the world are to be found here for sale.
Fish which it would seem from their color and oddity should be relegated to their aquarium are used as foods.
A species of octopus with its long tentacles is one of the most popular, and, strange to say, the hideous-looking arms are the most delicate and the most valued part. Huge crabs, known best in either Havana or in the cities along the Pacific coast, are also here in quantity. Sea slugs, several varieties of scallops add other shell fish not generally eaten in America although they are found in some parts, are on display and they seem to be much in demand.The Mediterranean fish are more Naked Truth. Francis Wilson tells of an encounter of wits that took place between the late Eugene Field and a New York woman.

It was at dinner, and the woman was in evening dress, which was décolleté. After a skirmish between the two relative to the respective merits of a well known author, it would seem that Field came off second best.

"O, Mr. Field," exclaimed the woman, exultantly, "you must admit that you are fairly beaten at your own game!"

Field bowed politely, and, with a smile, promptly rejoined: "At any rate, Miss Blank, I have one consolation; you can't laugh at me in your sleeve."—Lippincott's.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

When the blood is pure and healthy the skin will be soft, smooth and free from eruptions, but when the blood becomes infected with some unhealthy humor the effect is shown by rashes, eruptions, boils and pimples, or other disfiguring and annoying skin disease. The skin is provided with countless pores and glands which act as a drainage system to rid the body of impurities through the perspiration that is constantly passing through these little tubes. There are other glands that pour out on the skin an oily substance to keep it soft and pliable. When the blood becomes filled with humors and acids these are thrown off through the pores and glands, burning and irritating the skin and drying up the natural oils so that we have not only Acne, Eczema, Salt Rheum, etc., but such dry, scaly skin affections as Tetter, Psoriasis, and kindred troubles. The treatment of skin troubles with salves, washes, lotions, etc., is not along the right line. True, such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort and aids in keeping the skin clear, but it does not reach the real cause of the trouble, which are humors in the blood, and it can therefore have no real curative effect on these skin affections. S. S. S., a gentle action and perfect blood purifier, is the best and quickest treatment. It goes down into the blood and removes the humors, fiery acids and poisons from the circulation, cools the overheated blood, and by sending a fresh stream of nourishing blood to the skin, permanently cures skin diseases of every character. S. S. S. is made entirely of health producing roots, herbs and barks, and is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. S. S. S. cures Eczema, Acne, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Psoriasis, and all other disagreeable and unsightly eruptions of the skin. Special book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

New Hampshire's Country Residences Bring Millions to State Every Summer

Petersboro, N. H., Aug. 1.—Several years ago ex-Governor N. J. Batchelder, of this state, who has been prominent in public affairs for a generation, and particularly useful in agricultural matters, discovered that the rural population was rapidly diminishing because of emigration to the newer states and because of a continuous exodus from the farms to the manufacturing cities. After a thorough study of this phenomenon he secured the co-operation of then Governor Goodell, who recommended to the legislature the enactment of a law prepared by Governor Batchelder providing for a census of abandoned farms and homes and an appropriation of $3,000 a year to pay the expense of promoting their sale to newcomers. The first canvass showed that out of a total of 32,900 farms in New Hampshire 1,480 farms with houses and barns capable of providing comfortable homes, had been absolutely abandoned by their owners and for which there were no purchasers. The state board of agriculture, which was given charge of the matter, got into communication with the owners of these farms, had prices set upon them and then commenced a systematic effort by advertising and otherwise to secure their

2,000 TROOPS

ON DUTY AT BELFAST IN DOCK LABORERS' STRIKE.

Police, Who Sympathize With Strikers, Receive Support From Elsewhere.

Belfast, Aug. 1.—The troops continue to enter the city, emphasizing the fact that the authorities are determined to grapple promptly with rioting on the part of striking dock laborers or mutinous police.

The fourth battalion of the middle regiment arrived today, bringing a Maxim-gun. A section of the Essex regiment will arrive early tomorrow, making a military strength of about 7,000.

The imposing display is producing a reassuring effect on the general public, which early in the trouble was somewhat panic stricken. Important developments are expected on August 2, on which day there will be a special parade of disaffected police.

The police have received communications from numerous stations throughout the country expressing sympathy with the movement, declaring willingness to strike when action is taken in Belfast.

The chamber of commerce has decided to memorialize the lord lieutenant of Ireland, the earl of Aberdeen, regarding the situation. The terms of the memorial have not been disclosed but it is thought it appeals for martial law.

Picketing was resumed at the wharves today, and there were several instances of vehicles in charge of dock carters being overturned.

RAILROAD NOTES

The biggest train hauled on the Paducah district of the Illinois Central in many weeks was brought into the city this morning at 7 o'clock from Cedar Bluff by Conductor J. C. Thornhill, a newly promoted conductor. His train was an extra freight pulled by engine No. 849. Engineer John Trantham, and was made up of ballast, gravel and coal. There were 60 loaded cars in the train, the entire train weighing 3,400 tons.

Operator S. W. James, of the local Illinois Central passenger depot, is off duty and in his place Mr. B. B. Dame is working. Mr. Dame is from Madisonville.

The Illinois Central road reports one of the biggest month's business of the year for July. Passenger and freight traffic was unusually heavy, and freight coming in so fast and in such large quantities that a blockade of the yards resulted. Passenger traffic was increased by several excursions and pleasure seekers to the springs.

The Illinois Central railroad hospital experienced a dull month, considering it being July and a month generally marked by a great deal of illness. On July 1 there were 29 patients under treatment. Eighty were admitted and at the close of the month 29 were enrolled. There were two deaths during July.

OVER SITE

WILHELMINA ACCUSES SPECULATORS OF INFLUENCE.

Queen of Netherlands Decorates Andrew Carnegie With the Orange of Nassau.

The Hague, Aug. 1.—M. Nelhoff, president of the second peace conference, today laid the foundation stone of the Andrew Carnegie palace of peace at Zorgelet, in the midst of the wooded park stretching from The Hague to Scheveningen. The inauguration of this monument intended to commemorate and carry on the work of the international peace conference was marked by considerable ceremony.

Some disappointment is felt that Queen Wilhelmina, who is at The Hague, was not present at the ceremonies, and it is reported that the real reason for her absence is to be found in a dispute which arose regarding the choice of a site for the palace. Real estate speculators are openly accused of having influenced the selection of a site at Zorgelet.

While Queen Wilhelmina did not attend the ceremonies at the new temple today, she has showed her appreciation of the idea by conferring on its great enthusiast, Andrew Carnegie, the order of the Orange Nassau.

MEANEST THIEF TAKES TIRED MAN'S FALSE TEETH

Cleveland, O., Aug. 1.—It was an unlucky nap that Frank Gallagher, Turn avenue, northwest, took in a vacant lot on West Sixty-ninth street. He awoke to find his set of gold teeth along with his watch and chain, missing. Gallagher made straight for the Twelfth precinct police station, and reported his loss to Lieut. Broadwell.

"I saw the thief running down the street and I tried to yell for help, but I couldn't," he told the lieutenant. Gallagher, according to his own statement, was coming home from work, tired in body and mind. Spotting a nice shady spot in the vacant lot he lay down in the grass to rest a few minutes and went to sleep.

"I hope the thief will reconsider and return the teeth," Gallagher told the lieutenant.

ENGINE FOREMAN

HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF C. R. CROSS.

Police Judge Cross Conducted Inquest in Police Court Room—Was Kinsman.

An inquest held yesterday afternoon at the city hall into the death of C. R. Cross, the Illinois Central car repairer killed in the shop yards yesterday morning, resulted in a verdict holding the engine foreman, Mr. L. Schumaker, responsible, because he did not have a man on the end of the string of cars to warn workmen that his engine was coming into the track. The inquest began at 2 o'clock and was attended by more than 100 railroad men from the car shops. Police Judge D. A. Cross conducted the inquest in the interest of the family of the deceased. The evidence showed that Schumaker's engine was pushing 11 box cars into the track with only one switchman besides the foreman. Both foreman and switchman were stationed along the line of cars signalling the engineer, who was around a curve and unable to see the end of his cars. The inquest was not finished until nearly 5 o'clock as a recess had to be taken until Mr. B. Wheeler, foreman of the jacking track, could be secured to testify.

This morning at 7 o'clock the body of the unfortunate young car repairer was taken to Mt. Pleasant cemetery in Graves county and buried. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen and of the Modern Woodmen of the World. Both orders had charge of the burial.

Yesterday afternoon the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen met at the hall, Twelfth street and Broadway, and arranged for attending the funeral. Six pallbearers were selected, three being Modern Woodmen of America in addition to members of the Brotherhood. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Walter Lay, John McCann, Harry Angle, Hugh Money-maker, H. H. Worley and J. D. Riggs.

There were many carmen off duty today to attend the funeral, most of them being from the shop yards, where Cross worked.

QUEER BROOD FROM HIS TWO YELK EGGS.

Dayton, N. J., Aug. 1.—"I ben folerin' with considerable interest 't experiments o' Luther Burbank on 'n Californy," said Uncle Lem Wetherbee at Osborn's general store. "He's th' scientific cuss, y'know, 't's 'ben a-croasin' 'n perdicin' all sorta o' new-fangled frots 'n veg'ables. Now I ben a-tryin' 't do suthin' in that line myself, but I ain't a-cclaimin' nothin' wonderful. What I've done is, as you might say, ord'nary, 'n 't'd be done by anyone with sense enough 't put two 'n two 't'gether. There's my succotash plant, frinstance. 'At's a combination o' corn 'n lima bean, with both o' 'em on 't same cob. Fr' ev'ry ten grains o' corn there's a bean a-growin' in 't bewick. I've just raised enough o' the succotash plant for my own use this 'yar, but nex' 'yar I callate 't have it on 't market."

"In these here-pursuits o' science, though, I sometimes think a feller's downright wicked 't tryin' 't improve on what natur' 's given us. It's as much as sayin', 'Look here, Lord, I kin do better'n you.' I got in mind an experiment I tried some time ago 'n hatchin' out some double-yelked eggs. When I sot th' o' Chiny hen on them there eggs she looked at me sorter reproachful-like, 's if she knew some great calam' ty was 'bout 't happen. But though I 't'd see 'twuz clear ag'in her, conscienchus scruples she tackled 't job, fur she's jes' so plum crazy, 't sot she'd sot on doorknobs."

"T'other hen would come aroun' 'n try 't git her to blow her job, but she knowed her dooty when she sees it, 'n sot 'n sot till from those double-yelked eggs she hatched out 11 double-stummicked chickens. In all other respects they wuz like other chickens, with one head, two-wings 'n two legs, but their stummicks wuz double 'n lopped over 'n each other. 'It's all plain enough if you start 't reason it out. Th' yelk, as you might say, is th' stummick o' th' egg, 'n where there's two yelks natchur'ly it's boun' 't hatch out in a chicken with two stummicks. Anyhow, it's raised Cain in my barnyard. Th' o' Chiny hen's ben ostracized 'n none o' the other hen's'll speak 't her. The roosters has cut her dead."

"What they're all sore about is that these double-stummicked, chickens has got th' fiercest appetites you ever see. The Dominy's ain't nothin' to 'em. Havin' 'two insides 't supply they're allus a-workin' their gullets overtime 't fill 'em. An' none o' th' rest is gittin' a square meal."

THEFT OF $30,000 JEWELS FOLLOWED BY AN ARREST.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 1.—Nuncio Sergius was arrested here tonight on a warrant issued at the instance of his brother, Emilio Sergius, of 224 Thompson street, New York, charging him with the theft of antique jewelry valued at $30,000.

According to the story of Emilio Sergius his family is one of the oldest of Sicilians. The family homestead is in Sortino, where his father died several months ago. The family had been wealthy, but at his death little was left but a collection of antique jewelry, which it was decided should be sold to save the homestead in Italy for the benefit of two daughters at home and the sons here.

The jewels were sent to Emilio to have been the cause of his death, authority thru Sir Caspar. Pardon declared they were worth $30,000.

On June 22 the collection disappeared from a strong box in Emilio's rooms. Simultaneously Nuncio disappeared from New York. A warrant was secured by Emilio for his brother's arrest, and he was taken into custody here. The accused says she was robbed.

CHAPTER III.

As the supreme reward of virtue the good American is promised a visit to Paris when he dies. Those, however, of our sagacious fellow countrymen who can afford to make the trip usually manage to see Lutetia before crossing the river Styx. Most Americans like Paris, some like it so well that they have made it their permanent home, although it must be added that in their admiration they rarely include the Frenchman. For that matter, we are not as a nation particularly fond of any foreigner, largely because we do not understand him, while the foreigner for his part is quite willing to return the compliment. He gives the Yankee credit for commercial smartness, which has built up America's great material prosperity, but he has the utmost contempt for our acquaintance with art and no profound respect for us as scientists.

The logic of this position, set forth in Le Soir in an article on the New World, appealed strongly to Jefferson. He was sitting in front of the Cafe de la Paix in Paris, sipping a sugared vermouth. It was 5 o'clock, the magic hour of the apertif, when the glutton takes his wits to deceive his stomach and work up an appetite for renewed gorging. The little tables were all occupied with the usual before dinner crowd.

Fascinated by the gay scene around him, Jefferson laid the newspaper aside. To the young American, fresh from prosaic money and New York, the City of Pleasure presented indeed a novel and beautiful spectacle. How different, he mused, from his own city with one fashionable thoroughfare—Fifth avenue—monotonously lined for miles with hideous brownstone residences and showing little real animation except during the Saturday afternoon parade when the activities of the smart set, male and female, centered chiefly in such exciting diversions as going to Huyler's for soda, taking tea at the Waldorf and trying to outdo each other in dress and show. New York certainly was a dull place with all its boasted cosmopolitanism.

It was true, he thought, the foreigner had indeed learned the secret of enjoying life. There was assuredly something else in the world beyond mere money getting. His father was a slave to it, but he would never be. He was resolved on that. Yet, with all his ideas of emancipation and progress, Jefferson was a thoroughly practical young man. He fully understood the value of money, and the possession of it was as sweet to him as to other men. Only he would never sell his soul in acquiring it dishonestly.

No, Jefferson was no fool. He loved money for what pleasure, intellectual or physical, it could give him, but he would never allow money to dominate his life as his father had done. His father, he knew well, was not a happy man, neither happy himself nor respected by the world. He had foisted all his life to make his vast fortune, and now he toiled to take care of it. The galley slave led a life of luxurious ease compared with John Burkett Ryder. Baited by the yellow newspapers and magazines, investigated by state committees, dogged by process servers, haunted by beggars, harassed by blackmailers, threatened by kidnappers, frustrated in his attempts to bestow charity by the cry "infused money," certainly the lot of the world's richest man was far from being an enviable one.

That is why Jefferson had resolved to strike out for himself. He had warded off the golden yoke which his father proposed to put on his shoulders, declining the lucrative position made for him in the Empire Trading company, and he had gone so far as to refuse also the private income his father offered to settle on him. He would earn his own living. A man who has his bread buttered for him seldom accomplishes anything, he had said, and while his father had appeared to be angry at this open opposition to his will, he was secretly pleased at his son's grit. Jefferson was thoroughly in earnest. If needs be he would forego the great fortune that awaited him rather than be forced into questionable business methods against which his whole manhood revolted.

Jefferson Ryder felt strongly about these matters and gave them more thought than would be expected of most young men with his opportunities. In fact, he was unusually serious for his age. He was not yet thirty, but he had done a great deal of reading, and he took a keen interest in all the political and sociological questions of the hour. In personal appearance he was the type of man that both men and women like—tall and athletic looking, with smooth face and clean cut features. He had the steel blue eyes and the fighting jaw of his father, and when he smiled he displayed two even rows of very white teeth. He was popular with men, being manly, frank and cordial in his relations with them, and women admired him greatly, although they were somewhat intimidated by his grave and serious manner. The truth was that he was rather diffident with women, largely owing to lack of experience with them.

He had never felt the slightest inclination for business. He had the artistic temperament strongly developed, and his personal tastes had little in common with Wall Street and its feverish stock manipulating. When he was younger he had dreamed of a literary or art career. At one time he had even thought of going on the stage, but it was to art that he turned finally.

From an early age he had shown considerable skill as a draftsman, and later a two years' course at the Academy of Design convinced him that this was his true vocation. He had begun by illustrating for the book publishers and for the magazines, meeting at first with the usual rebuffs and disappointments; but, refusing to be discouraged, he had kept on and soon the tide turned. His drawings began to be accepted. They appeared first in one magazine, then in another, until one day, to his great joy, he received an order from an important firm of publishers for six wash drawings to be used in illustrating a famous novel. This was the beginning of his real success. His illustrations were talked about almost as much as the book, and from that time on everything was easy. He was in great demand by the publishers, and very soon the young artist, who had begun his career of independence on nothing a year, so to speak, found himself in a handsomely appointed studio in Bryant park, with more orders coming in than he could possibly fill and enjoying an income of little less than $5,000 a year. The money was all the sweeter to Jefferson in that he felt he had himself earned every cent of it. This summer he was giving himself a well deserved vacation, and he had come to Europe partly to see Paris and the other art centers about which his fellow students at the academy raved, but principally—although this he did not acknowledge even to himself—to meet in Paris a young woman in whom he was more than ordinarily interested—Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore of the United States supreme court, who had come abroad to recuperate after the labors of her new novel, "The American Optimus," a book which was then the talk of two hemispheres.

Jefferson had read half a dozen reviews of it in as many American papers that afternoon at the New York Herald's reading room in the Avenue de l'Opera, and he chuckled with glee as he thought how accurately this young woman had described his father. The book had been published under the pseudonym "Shirley Green," and he alone had been admitted into the secret of authorship. The critics all conceded that it was the book of the year, and that it portrayed with a pitiless pen the personality of the biggest figure in the commercial life of America. "Although," wrote one reviewer, "the leading character in the book is given another name, there can be no doubt that the author intended to give to the world a vivid pen portrait of John Burkett Ryder. She has succeeded in presenting a remarkable character study of the most remarkable man of his time."

He was particularly pleased with the reviews, not only for Miss Rossmore's sake, but also because his own vanity was gratified. Had he not collaborated on the book to the extent of acquainting the author with details of his father's life and his characteristics which no outsider could possibly have learned? There had been no disloyalty to his father in doing this. Jefferson admired his father's smartness, if he could not approve his methods. He did not consider the book an attack on his father, but rather a powerfully written pen picture of an extraordinary man.

The acquaintance of his son with the daughter of Judge Rossmore had not escaped the eagle eye of Ryder, Sr., and much to the financier's annoyance and even consternation he had ascertained that Jefferson was a frequent caller at the Rossmore home. He immediately jumped to the conclusion that this would mean only one thing, and fearing what he termed "the consequences of the insanity of immature minds," he had summoned Jefferson peremptorily to his presence. He told his son that all idea of marriage in that quarter was out of the question for two reasons: One was that Judge Rossmore was his most bitter enemy, the other was that he had hoped to see his son, his destined successor, marry a woman of whom he, Ryder, Sr., could approve. He knew of such a woman, one who would make a far more desirable mate than Miss Rossmore. He alluded, of course, to Kate Roberts, the pretty daughter of his old friend, the senator. The family interests would benefit by this alliance, which was desirable from every point of view.

Jefferson had listened respectfully until his father had finished and then grimly remarked that only one point of view had been overlooked—his own. He did not care for Miss Roberts; he did not think she really cared for him. The marriage was out of the question. Whereupon Ryder, Sr., had fumed and raged, declaring that Jefferson was opposing his will as he always did, and ending with the threat that if his son married Shirley Rossmore without his consent he would disinherit him.

Jefferson was cogitating on these incidents of the last few months when suddenly a feminine voice which he quickly recognized called out in English:

"Hello! Mr. Ryder." He looked up and saw two ladies, one young, the other middle aged, smiling at him from an open carriage which had drawn up to the curb. Jefferson jumped from his seat, upsetting his chair and starting two nervous Frenchmen in his hurry, and fastened on her.

"Why, Mrs. Rossmore, what are you doing out driving?" he asked. "You know you and Mrs. Blake promised to dine with me tonight. I was coming round to the hotel in a few moments."

Mrs. Blake was a younger sister of Shirley's mother. Her husband had died a few years previously, leaving her a small income, and when she had heard of her niece's contemplated trip to Europe she had decided to come to Paris to meet her and incidentally to chaperon her. The two women were stopping at the Grand Hotel close by, while Jefferson had found accommodations at the Athenae.

Shirley explained. Her aunt wanted to go to the dressmaker's, and she herself was most anxious to go to the Luxembourg Gardens to hear the music. Would he take her? Then they could meet Mrs. Blake at the hotel at 7 o'clock and all go to dinner. Was he willing?

Mrs. Blake said she would get out her hat. Her dressmaker was close by in the Rue d'Artois, and she would walk back to the hotel to meet them at 7 o'clock. Jefferson assisted her to the porte cochere of the modiste's, a couple of doors away. When he returned to the carriage, Shirley had already told the coachman where to go. He got in, and the fairs started.

"Now," said Shirley, "tell me what you have been doing with yourself all day."

Jefferson was busily arranging the faded carriage rug about Shirley, spending more time in the task perhaps than was absolutely necessary, and she had to repeat the question.

"Doing?" he echoed, with a smile. "I've been doing two things—waiting impatiently for 7 o'clock and incidentally reading the notices of your book."

The Peanut Trade. Peanuts have become an important article of American foreign commerce in the last six years, especially on the import side in spite of the fact that we produce about 12,000,000 bushels a year. Peanut imports have grown in value from $6,000 in 1900 to $500,000 this year, while our exports thereof will approximate $300,000. When this fiscal year closes we shall have a list of peanuts for nearly $1,300,000 of our total foreign commerce for the year, according to the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

The peanut acreage in this country increased 150 per cent between 1890 and 1900. There are under cultivation now 517,000 acres, producing 11,905,000 bushels. The crop is concentrated in a few southern states, Virginia supplying one-third, North Carolina another third, New York Sun.

FOR SENATOR

FOLK OF MISSOURI IS LAYING HIS PLANS, SAYS REPORT.

Kansas City Police Muddle and Other Issues Part of Political Program.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 1.—Gov. J. W. Folk has begun the work of building an airtight police machine in this city, says political leaders. Folk is a candidate for the United States senate, and the plans of his political managers, contemplate police machines in Kansas City, St. Louis and St. Joseph. Joseph Shannon is regarded as Folk's chief lieutenant here.

The first step in machine building was the removal of Police Commissioner F. F. Rozelle, after he refused to vote to dismiss Chief John Hayes and other members of the force. In a statement to the press Mr. Rozelle says he was instructed by Folk two months ago to "clean up" the police department here because it was unfriendly to the governor. He promised to make changes if the investigation ordered by the governor warranted his doing so. The investigation, he says, disproved Folk's contention of collusion between the chief and the disreputable, and Rozelle declared to the governor that he would resign before voting to dismiss Hayes.

Meeting in St. Louis. Last Sunday, according to reports current here, a meeting was held in St. Louis between representatives of the governor, J. J. Helm, the Kansas City brewer, and agents of Tony Steuwer, at which an agreement is said to have been reached whereby the amusement parks of this city are to be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors in return for brewery aid when Folk's candidacy for the senate goes under full sway.

CHEROKEES ARE NOW MOST EXPERT FARMERS.

Collinsville, I. T., Aug. 1.—Secretary McNabb, of the Oklahoma board of agriculture, who is touring the proposed new state investigating horticultural and agricultural conditions spent a day here last week driving over the country. He said the Indians were revelation to him; inasmuch as they owned large, well-kept orchards, and are enthusiastic fruit and berry growers. In discussing the Cherokee Indians and their aptitude in this work, Mr. McNabb said:

"The real Indian is indeed a remarkable person, when you consider his rapid assimilation of the ways of his 'pale face' brother. I found many of them not only well informed, but enthusiastic on the subject of both agriculture and horticulture. They appear to have the upland of the average white farmer in this country, but I presume this is true largely because they own their lands, and have grown orchards for years past. They are, as a class, very intelligent and wide-awake to their best interests."

"I have no interest here except to study general conditions among the Cherokees. I will state, however, that nature has done more for these people than the white man, but they are apt students and are fully abreast of the times in every department of human endeavor."

"I predict that within five years the Cherokee Nation will become famous as a fruit and berry country. Practically every Indian in this locality is not only progressive, but an industrious citizen. I believe the public will better appreciate the Indians when it becomes better acquainted with them and their manner of doing things."

BAN ON WOMEN TO CHECK THE GOSSIP.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Hereafter women clerks of the department of agriculture will not be permitted to act as private secretaries or confidential clerks of divisions or bureaus.

Secretary Wilson has no prejudice against them, but he deems it due to them that not one of them be required to perform services that will bring her into such relations with her chief as to enable evil-minded persons to do any gossiping. He considers it better for the good name of the women employees in the department service to make a rule that men chiefs of division shall have men as private secretaries or confidential clerks.

The fact that the secretary had prescribed such a rule for his own guidance has become known recently through his refusal to permit a woman stenographer to be detailed as clerk to a chief of bureau. He is perfectly willing to have the stenographers take dictation from the chiefs of

WOMAN WORKED IN COAL MINE

Masquerading as a Man and Posing as Helper to Husband.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 1.—Masquerading as a man, working with her husband in coal mines, "Joe" Povie today was discovered to be Mrs. Susie Povie, when taken to a hospital suffering from injuries sustained in a mine accident at Cecil. The woman, according to her husband, Steve Povie, had been working with him three years. Her coarse voice and cropped hair deceived all, while her strength equalled any of her male slave companions. The woman's injuries are not serious. The husband was arrested, charged with violation of the law in employing female help in a mine. The woman acted as Povie's "helper" and was paid by him.

Patrolman Jack Sanders arrested six colored men last night between 11 and 12 o'clock at 1109 South Tenth street and brought them to the city hall. The crowd was drinking and boisterous and the noise attracted the attention of the policeman several blocks away. This morning in police court they were presented for disorderly conduct and three of them fined. Jack Washington, Blanche Lomack and Rena Brown were fined $20 and costs each and John Henry Parks, Tom Bivens and Ed Drain were dismissed.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Threatened to Burn Out Municipal Institutions—One Killed.

Pittsburg, Aug. 1.—A fire that threatened to destroy the municipal institutions of this city at Marshall sea, 12 miles from here, broke out last night and at midnight was still burning. It started in the laundry of the main building. The administration building and hospital were destroyed. Sanguel Means, an employee, was killed by falling walls. The flames communicated to the insane pavilion, and police and county detectives were sent to assist the attendants. The 589 inmates were herded safely on the lawns. The fire was gotten under control only after a $25,000 loss was sustained.

Indian Women Murdered?

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 1.—The body of a Chippewa Indian, identified as Mrs. Charles Gartin, of the Red river reservation, was found on the northwestern tracks here today. She was seen with another squaw walking along the tracks after the circus last evening, and as her companion is missing, foul play is feared.

Vienna has only thirty-nine inhabitants per acre, the city ground comprising 42,503 acres and the population being 1,675,000.

Lake Superior's Water Purest.

The water in Lake Superior is the purest in the Great Lakes, according to tests by the government. Lake Erie contains the largest percentage of incrustants.

The analysis shows that the waters hold in solution varying quantities of calcium and magnesium compounds, which, from their tendency to form scale or incrustations on boilers, are called incrustants. Named in the order of the total content of incrustants, beginning with the lowest, the lakes rank as follows: Superior, Huron, Michigan, Ontario, Erie. The waters of Lake Michigan and Lake Huron are nearly identical in quality, and the same may be said of those of Lakes Ontario and Erie. Lake Superior, however, carries just about half the amount of incrustants borne by the other lakes.

The reason for this variation is found in the geological formation that surrounds the lakes. The streams flowing into Lake Superior drain areas composed chiefly of crystalline rocks, which yield scant quantities of mineral matter to waters flowing through them.

Lake Erie is high in incrustants because it receives—not only the waters of Lakes Michigan and Huron, but the drainage from immense areas of sedimentary rocks in Indiana and Ohio and the Province of Ontario.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

Illinois Man Is Bandit.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 1.—George Tower, arrested for complicity in the hold-up of the Northern Pacific train on May 7, when Engineer Clow was killed, confessed. He implicated three other men. Tower is 22 years of age and says his parents reside in Galesburg, Ill.

And then there is the man who doesn't make up his mind to steal the horse until after the stable door is locked.—Puck.

COSTLY WRECK

WHEN TWO ENGINES EXPLODED
AT SITKA, TENN.

Four Dead, Nine Injured and One Missing, and Damage of About $150,000.

Milan, Tenn., Aug. 1.—The fire which followed the wreck at Sitka, three and a half miles south of Milan Saturday night, continued to burn throughout today and little progress, if any, has been made towards clearing away the two demolished engines, together with the mass of coal and banana cars, which were ignited immediately after the wreck occurred. There is no way of securing water at Sitka and in consequence the trainmen and onlookers had to stand patiently by and await the fire's running its course.

The cause of the wreck was a most peculiar one. Engine No. 696 was standing on the siding, waiting for engine 804, and when the latter engine got immediately opposite the engine on the siding it exploded with the result that both engines were hurled to the side of the rails in a mass and the cars were piled upon them. Fragments of the engine which exploded were picked up later hundreds of yards from the scene.

The loss to the railroad company is estimated all the way from $100,000 to $200,000.

The dead are: Sam Malloy, engineer of 804; Bob Pearson, colored fireman of 804, scalded to death; Will Guy, head brakeman of 804; two tramps, names unknown, buried under the wreckage.

Injured: A Beeslie, engineer of 696, wounds on head, will recover; J. J. Dennis, negro fireman of 696, wounds on head and body will recover; two white trainmen, names unknown, badly bruised; five tramps, names unknown, one will likely die, others badly hurt.

Missing: Head brakeman of south bound, name unknown, body supposedly under debris.

TRUSS HEAD OF HOUSE TO ROB.
Burglars Tie Up Man and Throw Him Into Kitchen.

Shelbyville, Ind., Aug. 1.—Two masked robbers entered the home of James M. Brown, retired lumber dealer, between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning, and ransacked the house, after tying Brown and throwing him into the kitchen. Brown, while trying to get up, knocked over some tinware, and the noise awakened his wife and daughter and frightened the robbers away. Mrs. Brown and her daughter ran into the kitchen and found Brown almost choked to death. The thieves in their flight abandoned much of the loot they had gathered.
